Student-Centered Learning

Learning is active rather than passive and provides students with choices about their learning.

In what ways does the lesson...

- Place students in the role of active rather than passive learners?
- Allow students to make choices about their learning environment (for example, choosing content, process, product)?
- Recognize and use students' prior knowledge, cultural backgrounds, values, perspectives, interests, and opinions?
- Acknowledge students' individual needs and scaffold learning tasks accordingly (such as providing bidirectional feedback, chunking, using graphic organizers, supplying learning rationales, etc.)?
- Allow students to reflect on and evaluate their own work?
