

CAREER PRESENTATION GUIDE

Presentation Instructions

Your presentation should include the following:

- Choose one forensic career from the provided website provided.
- Choose one career that uses soil testing or soil as evidence.
 - Explain how that career uses soil evidence or testing and compare it to how a crime scene investigator might use soil evidence.
- Make sure your presentation has images and is easy to read.

Use the shortened link or QR code below to explore forensic careers:

<https://k20.ou.edu/uv>

Source: Careers in forensic science. American Academy of Forensic Sciences. <https://www.aafs.org/careers-forensic-science>

Career Presentation Rubric
Criteria	4: Exceeds Expectations	3: Meets Expectations	2: Approaching Expectations	1: Beginning
Career Research & Content	Thoroughly explains both careers, including job duties, education requirements, work environment, and importance of the career.	Explains both careers with accurate information and most required details.	Provides some information about both careers, but is missing important details.	Provides limited or inaccurate information about one or both careers.
Visual Design & Organization	Presentation is highly organized, visually appealing, easy to read, and includes relevant images, graphics, or charts that enhance understanding.	Presentation is organized and visually clear with appropriate visuals.	Presentation is somewhat organized, but visuals are limited, difficult to read, or distracting.	Presentation is disorganized and lacks effective visual elements.
Sources & Citations	Uses multiple reliable sources and correctly cites all sources for information and images.	Uses reliable sources and cites most sources correctly.	Uses few sources or citations are incomplete.	Sources are missing or not cited.
Presentation Skills	Speaks clearly and confidently, maintains audience engagement, and demonstrates strong preparation.	Speaks clearly and shows preparation.	Presentation is difficult to hear, rushed, or shows limited preparation.	Presentation is incomplete or difficult to understand.

Careers

Career	Surprising	Interesting	Thought-Provoking