

PROJECT RUBRIC

	4	3	2	1
Argument	Argument is thoroughly described with a claim from each side of the conflict.	Argument is clearly described with a claim from each side of the conflict.	Argument is somewhat described with details from both sides of the conflict.	Argument is unclear. The claim and/or details of the conflict are not described.
Evidence	Connects evidence to the claim of each side with analysis of why these issues are important to the individual.	Connects evidence to the claim of each side with specific details.	Connects evidence to the claim of each side with few details.	Connections of evidence to the claims of each side are missing or unclear.
Resolution	The resolution provided can be applied to similar situations in the real world.	The resolution provided will be satisfactory to both parties.	The resolution provided is satisfactory to only one member of the conflict.	The resolution is unclear with little to no explanation.
Project	Project is an original piece of creative writing thoroughly describing the feud with writing conventions, containing few, if any, issues.	Project is an original piece of creative writing describing the feud with clarity and attention given to writing conventions.	Project is an original piece of writing describing the feud with lack of detail and little attention given to writing conventions.	Project is an original piece of writing with few details describing the feud and may contain issues with writing conventions.