

TRUE FOR WHO?

1. Discuss the statement. In what kind of situation was it made? Who made it or would make it? What were the speaker's intentions and goals? What was at stake?
2. Determine as a group how each individual would have felt about the statement. Circle the individuals who would have found this statement to be true. Cross out the individuals who would have found this statement to be false. If you think a statement could have been seen as true or false by the individual, put a question mark next to their name.
3. Write down any notes from the discussion that you feel are important which you want to remember.
