

JUSTIFIED TRUE OR FALSE EXAMPLE STATEMENTS

"If it's a good book, anyone will read it."

- J.K. Rowling, from a 1999 Time article entitled "The Wizard of Hogwarts."

(Is Verifiable, and comes from an Authority, though it could be argued that it is not Objective)

"People say nothing's impossible, but I do nothing every day."

- Winnie the Pooh

(Meets none of the criteria)

"Dewey Defeats Truman"

- Chicago Daily Tribune, November 3, 1948 in reference to the U.S. presidential election

(Is Objective, and comes from an Authority, but not Verifiable since the headline was actually wrong)

"This means that the Solar System consists of eight "planets"... It was agreed that "planets" and "dwarf planets" are two distinct classes of objects."

- International Astronomical Union, August 24, 2006

(Is Verifiable, Objective, and comes from an Authority)

"It is a soft 'G,' pronounced 'jif.' End of story."

- Steve Wilhite, creator of the GIF format

(Is Verifiable, and comes from an Authority)