

THIEF CAUGHT STEALING DOCUMENTS

Norfolk, VA: October 10

This morning after months of searching, police have finally caught the thief responsible for stealing documents from a local office.

The young man was arrested early yesterday morning while trying to enter the same office he robbed months earlier.

Once authorities arrived to the office, the criminal fled the scene and engaged several squad cars in a high--- speed pursuit.

He eventually crashed his unmarked van into a parked vehicle just outside an office building. He is being charged with theft of sensitive documents, breaking and entering, resisting arrest, illegal residency status, intent to share government information and destruction of property.

He chose to not cooperate with the local authorities, and has refused to share any information as to his identity.

He is being held in prison until details and motive behind the burglaries is established.

The exact identity of the apprehended man has yet to be confirmed, but investigators have followed several leads to suggest that the thief is an illegal immigrant with ties to an organization dedicated to bringing about the demise of the government.

This same thief has been linked to the theft of pages of records from seven different offices around the city. When questioned, he simply stated that he refused to speak until he was granted a lawyer and given a fair trial in front of a jury.

The thief is set to be charged as a criminal and will be held here in the United States as a prisoner.

—Michael Geizz, War Journalist: New York Times