

EXTEND CARD SORT

Political: Relating to the government or who oversees making laws	Social: Relating to interactions between groups of people	Economic: Relating to how people earn money or pay for living expenses
Emmanuel Sièyes wrote a pamphlet about the rights the Third Estate should be given.	Although the Third Estate made up 98% of the population, they only owned 65% of land in France.	The Third Estate felt that they were being taken advantage of by the other two estates.
The Third Estate did most of the work that kept France's economy running.	Bread prices rose rapidly and ate through all the money in a person's paycheck.	The First and Second Estates paid no taxes.
The Third Estate had no political power.	Jean Jacques Rousseau wrote that the power to make laws should be given to the people.	